

EdgCapture American Express Direct

Help Eliminate Third-Party Processing Fees

How many American Express transactions do you process per year?

If you're using a third-party processor to authorize and settle American Express transactions, you're probably paying service fees. These costs can add up quickly even if the additional fee is only a few cents per transaction. Edgil can help you eliminate third-party processing fees on every American Express transaction with Edgil's latest product enhancement, American Express Direct. American Express Direct connectivity allows merchants to process customer American Express card transactions directly through American Express.

In addition to the potential direct cost savings ranging from $0.05 to $0.20 per transaction, merchants benefit from American Express Direct by receiving faster authorizations, settlement and payment. The new product enhancements add to a comprehensive and powerful payment processing solution that is truly tailored to meet the needs of today's publishers.

The Edgil Advantage

- Lower Processing Costs
- Faster Authorization
- Quicker Settlement
- Fast Implementation
- Secure solution from a vendor you know & trust

Available Third Quarter 2007

- Minimal software license investment
- Quick Implementation to add additional direct interface to American Express

About Edgil

The safety and security of our customers' data is our number one priority. That's why more than 100 newspaper and magazine publishers throughout the US and Canada count on Edgil technology for their payment processing needs. Edgil is the leading provider of integrated payment processing systems for the publishing industry, securely managing more than 15 million transactions annually.

For More Information

Contact: Sean Callahan

Director of Sales

Phone: (978) 262 9979 x291

Email: scallahan@adstar.com